Description

In order to create a new generation of researchers, the Doctoral School of Economics and Business Administration provides further training and development for doctoral students through activities of scientific research, namely the capitalization of scientific research according to the specificity of each doctoral field, conducted under the direction of doctoral supervisors, but also by integrating doctoral students in teams working on research projects. A team of highly trained professional teachers with training courses at prestigious universities in Europe and in the U.S., with experience in scientific research gained through their active involvement in research projects/ grants of national or international level ensures expert coordination for doctoral students in 7 doctoral domains. Within the Faculty of Economics and Business Administration, doctoral students benefit from a very dynamic learning and research environment coupled with a modern learning and research infrastructure.
