Description

Following the unification of the doctoral schools organized previously in Philosophy (communication and culture, political philosophy, history of philosophy, Romanian philosophy), based on the UBB regulation for organizing and conducting doctoral studies no. 23160 of October 21, 2011 the Doctoral School in Philosophy was established at the Faculty of History and Philosophy. Currently, the Doctoral School in Philosophy comprises 6 doctoral supervisors, 18 teachers affiliated as mentors, 80 PhD students. Training of doctoral students in the Doctoral School of Philosophy is done in accordance with the research undertaken in the following main directions: phenomenology, semiology, hermeneutics, ethics, aesthetics, political philosophy, philosophy of culture and communication, history of philosophy, Romanian philosophy, Hungarian philosophy, interdisciplinary, transdisciplinary and applied research. Doctoral studies are conducted in Romanian, Hungarian, or in an international foreign language. Members of the Doctoral School in Philosophy are involved in numerous research projects, attend conferences, symposia, workshops, annual scientific sessions of doctoral students in joint programs with other research institutions and doctoral schools at home and abroad, and their results are presented in numerous scientific publications issued by scientific journals and accredited publishers with BDI indexation. The Doctoral School in Philosophy collaborates with the Center for Ancient and Medieval Philosophy, and the Center for Applied Philosophy, thus providing the necessary information resources and facilities for research and guidance.
