Description

‘European paradigm’ Doctoral School, belonging to the Faculty of European Studies, has a double potential which gives its distinctive character within the context of doctoral schools at UBB: (1) by supervising PhDs in traditional domains it also promotes the multidisciplinary nature of approaches employed in research; (2) in addition to the scientific production of quality, the team of this school supports and practices in various forms the implication of academics in the public life.

To ensure administrative and professional conditions that can produce high quality doctoral theses, the team of the ‘European paradigm’ Doctoral School seeks collaboration with the other doctoral schools of UBB.

Beyond UBB, we promote and collaborate with academic institutions in the country and abroad as well as with organizations of the local, national and international civil societies. In addition to the development of scientific knowledge through fundamental empirical research interpreted on solid theoretical bases, we aim, through applied approaches, to contribute to the social responsabilization of knowledge.
