

Babeş-Bolyai University Cluj-Napoca
2012-2013

Doctoral School in Linguistic and Literary Studies

Doctoral supervisors

Balogh F. Andras

German literature in Central and Southeastern Europe

Stefan Borbely:

World and Comparative Literature; Mythology

Mircea Borcilă

Integral Linguistics, Cognitive Semantics, Poetics

Ioana Both

Nineteenth and twentieth century Romanian literature,

History of Romanian literary ideas, French style

Romanian writers

Corin Braga

Comparative literature, Imagination studies, Religion and literature, Utopias and dystopias, Archetypes and anarchetypes

Ligia Florea

Linguistics, pragmatics and discourse analysis

Yvonne Goga

Nineteenth, twentieth and twenty-first century French literature, traductology, francophone literatures

Michaela Mudure

Women's literature, Enlightenment, Postcolonial literatures, American studies

Mircea Muthu

Universal literature, Aesthetics, Cultural studies,

Literary and plastic imaginary

Gavrilă Neamț

Contemporary Romanian literature

Ștefan Oltean

English and American linguistics, Theoretical linguistics,

Generative syntax, Formal semantics and possible world semantics, Proper names semantics, Semantics of fiction,

Free indirect discourse, History of English, Language policies and multilingualism

Rodica Pop

French and Belgian Literature, Francophone

comparatism, Traductology

Sanda Tomescu Baciu

Norwegian literature, Ibsen studies, Comparative

Nordic literatures

Ion Vartic

Theatrology

Mihai Zdrengea

Semantics and pragmatics

Affiliated academic staff

Liana Pop

French and Romanian linguistics, Pragmatics, Discourse Analysis, Oral communication, Research Seminars

Description

The Linguistic and Literary Postgraduate Department of the Faculty of Letters at Babeş-Bolyai University constitutes a natural continuation of the Bachelor and Master level studies, being focused on PhD programmes which offer both research and teaching opportunities. Our students' curriculum includes lectures, seminars, lab classes and workshops, as well as the possibility of attending conferences organized by our faculty or the University, many a time in collaboration with our partner institutions.

The members of our Postgraduate Department are encouraged to take part in international exchange programmes and in turn host prestigious events in which renowned foreign lecturers offer our students a unique insight into the most dynamic developments of Philology Studies around the world.

Contact

<http://193.231.20.24/index.php/studii/doctorat>